FIRST VESSEL FOR ADELAIDE.

FARQUHAR.—Mr. Philip Martin Stallard, formerly Secretary to the Very Reverend Dr. Gregory, Vicar General of Archishop Polding, was yesterday brought before the Police Court, upon the charge of having forged the signature of the Rev. Joseph Charles Summer on promissory notes, purporting to be made in his (Stallard's) favour. The spurious note of the signature was proved by the evidence of Mr. Summer himself, and it was also shown that two of the notes had been discounted by Mr. Bellfield. One of these, for £100, was discounted at the Bank of New South Wales; and the other, for £37 10s., was discounted at the Commercial Bank. The £30 note was discounted by the Bank of New South Wales in November, and at the latter end of the following month a Mr. Bellfield tendered for discount a second note of the same kind for £35. As it was known that Mr. Summer was not in the habit of giving promissory notes, suspicion was excited on the second occasion, as far as possible, that gentleman to be spoken of, when he was once deputed to him, were forgeries. Warrants were accordingly issued, but Mr. Stallard had in the meantime left Sydney, and made for the southward, and he was subsequently taken at Yass, from whence in due course he was transmitted to Sydney. Mr. Bellfield offered no defence, but when called upon to do so, urged that he had been dealt with in a way that he had not been able to procure justice, that he had not been able to procure a drop of water to wash himself before his appearance in Court. Alderman Summer, by whom the case was heard, expressed the opinion that there was no occasion for the exercise of such rigid severity, and directed that the master should be enquired into. It was stated by the Chief Inspector, that in case of felony, the standing orders were to permit no change of clothing or otherwise, until the prisoner before his examination, without a magistrate's order. There was no authority, however, for prohibiting a prisoner the use of water. Mr. Stallard was separately committed for trial as to the forgeries upon the two banks; but it was intimated that bail would be allowed in the event of a second magistrate assenting; and that communication with his friends was no longer interdicted.

CHARGE AGAINST THE POLICE.—Constables Ainsworth and Ekins of the Sydney Police, yesterday appeared before Mr. Flodden, charged by one James Yeoman, of King street, with having, between the hours of eleven and twelve, on the night of Friday, the 1st instant, unlawfully entered into the shop of John Nichols, his property, to the amount of 2s. Mr. Nichols appeared for the complainant, and Mr. Bremen for the defence. The constable, on examination, said, that the parties before the Court were the persons referred to in his information just read, which was true. In his cross-examination of this witness, Mr. Bremen elicited that he was the keeper of an eating house in King street, with which was connected the business of lodging—housekeeper, having accommodation for both married and single. On the day named in the charge, he had told his house, who had told him that she had ran away from her husband, and had then been a week or more lodging in his house; that day the husband had brought an inspector and one or two constables to take the woman into custody for having robbed him of three rings, but as ascertaining the relation in which the parties stood to each other, they declined having anything to do with the case. Shortly after the constable and his mate left, some two hours later, the husband returned with two constables—the two defendants—and having told them that the woman was up stairs, and that he charged her with stealing three rings from him; up stairs the three went, the man overheard the woman's voice, pointed out the woman, admittance was refused by those inside, the constable pushed in the door, apprehended the woman, and found the property in her possession, which the man had described as having been stolen from him. She was taken to the court of Madrid, by whose interest they were generously granted a free passage by the Spanish Government. Captain Quesada and most of his officers have visited Perth during the week, and we hear that it is intended to invite them to a public ball in Tuesday next should the vessel not sail previously. Her next port is Manila.—Perth Gazette, January 4.

CALIFORNIA.—We have been favoured with the sight of a letter from California, written to his parents by Mr. Alexander Wilkinson, of this town, and have made some extracts from it. The first portion of the letter was written from San Francisco, where several of his Maitland friends (prudently anxious of retaining the money they took with them) were engaged in assisting to unload the cargo of the ship they went in, and other occupations, and were gathering information on which to decide whether the joint company (ten in number) should or should not proceed together to the diggings. The postscript was written after Mr. Wilkinson had determined on returning to Australia, in preference to going to the diggings. Mr. Wilkinson's statements are very similar to those gathered from the experience of Mr. Abraham Cohen, who has just returned by the Union, mainly on account of ill health. The letter is dated—"San Francisco, 19th October, 1849." * * * The city is prettily situated, only, it is very sandy and dusty in summer; and when it rains, tents, &c., are washed away, and you are up to your middle in mud and water. The city is built on the sides of several small hills, and the streets are very narrow and steep. The carting is done principally by light carts and mules; the saddle horses are scarce, and the saddle-saddles most curious. The ground is enormously high-priced, and no foreigners are allowed to hold land unless they have become naturalised, which takes five years. I have been hard at work the last week or two, with two others, pulling a boat for hire—turned waterman—and have earned 100 dollars, which goes towards paying the expenses of the company (ten of us) to be paid. All parts agree in describing the stock to be in excellent condition for the pots; and although we have not hitherto had our principal rains—generally expected shortly after Christmas—still I hear of no want of water or deficiency of feed; this fact must be very cheering to the stockholders, as the boiling pots are the only outlet they have at present for their surplus stock.

LOCAL BANK.—An institution of this description, conducted upon sound principles, was never more urgently required in a community than is now prevalent in this little independent colony. It is to be regretted that the only conception of great cash transactions are entirely set aside, the only circulating medium being the order drawn by squatters and others upon their agents in Sydney, and which in many cases are totally useless in the way of trade: duties upon foreign goods must be paid in cash, the Sub-collector of Customs at Brisbane refusing any longer to receive checks or orders for the payment of duties. The want of a proper circulation of medium is a serious evil, and it is to be regretted that the joint company of the Sydney Banks are opposed to the establishment of an institution of this nature, as it must materially trench upon their profits of trade; but a community exporting annually £300,000, and importing nearly as largely, must consider themselves capable of supporting a banking establishment: the entire trade of the colony is now in the hands of the joint company upon the agency principle—the loss in many cases from bad and doubtful orders failing entirely upon the trading community of Brisbane, Ipswich, and other towns, and therefore, unless either the Union or Bank of Australia at once open branch establishments in these districts, the squatters, traders, and others, must be blind to their own interests and future well-being, if they do not at once co-operate in forming a local bank in these districts. Early practice will be necessary, and all classes must together co-operate to establish a bank, but the unfortunate present has been taken into custody. Now, in the first place, I beg to inform you that the old Red Bull is to present the note in question.

The remaining portion of the said documents are in my possession, and if you will give me leave, and if you wish to recover them you are willing to give, in the day's time, if you can, the sum to be committed to the flame—if you do not like to pay them off.

Tell Mr. ——, if he thinks of coming here, that the more money and the less goods he brings the better. Goods you can't get anything for, nor any place to put them in, and they expose the streets. I will have to pay four dollars per month storage for my goods, and two or three dollars carriage. Nothing is half as dear a dollar, which bears much the same value as ours.

Yours, &c., &c., SILENCE.

Mr. James Cook, Merchant, Circular Quay, Sydney, February 11.

CAPTAIN WESTON'S LETTER.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN.—I enclose you a copy of the circular of the Post Office, dated the 16th instant, which you will perceive is addressed to the Hon. Mr. Weston, of the Admiralty, and which states that the vessel was entitled to the name of "Bathurst," and the name given to her as "Barnett."

Yours, &c., &c., SILENCE.

Mr. James Cook, Merchant, Circular Quay, Sydney, February 11.

MARSHAL'S INQUIRY.—On Wednesday, an inquest was held at Clarke's, the Circular Quay, on the body of the body of Henry Thomas, watchman at Mr. Campbell's wharf, who was proceeding to the far end of the Quay, when Mr. Campbell has some oil, when a man, either a soldier or a marine, called out that his horse had fallen down the precipice; witness said the horseman got a light, and on searching, found the deceased lying at the foot of the precipice, but quite dead: the marine or soldier had then gone; the body was then removed to Clarke's public-house, and a doctor sent for, who saw the body in about an hour after its having been found. The jury went to view the precipice alluded to, and found it a dangerous place, sixteen to eighteen feet high, the edge of which the footpath runs. The path, indeed, from the Quay to the fort, is very dangerous, and has no fencing or other protection to parties passing that way at night. The master-staffs of H. M. S. Dreadnought, deceased, was a seaman on board that vessel. Dr. Allynne deplored the loss of his friend, who described would produce the marks found on the body, and conclusion of the brain, which he was in probability the cause of death. Verdict: he died from injuries accidentally received. To the jury appended the following rider:—The jury beg to express their regret, that the road to Macquarie Fort is at present in so unsafe a state, and, as this road is a public thoroughfare, they unanimously request the Governor to communicate with the authorities, in order that immediate steps be taken to remedy the same, and to prevent any similar accidents in future.

SALE OF TALLOW AND OIL.—At the sale held by Mr. George A. Lloyd, on Wednesday last, 33 casks white tallow, realized 27/- per ton; and 16 tons cocoanut oil, ex 22/- per ton, in bond.

EXTRA.—In the first column of our leading article of Wednesday last, on "The Circular Quay," it is said, "the ratio of the amount received by balances rises to about twenty-four per cent, or nearly one-fourth, of the whole."

The correspondence of the Sub-Collector of

ROMAN CATHOLIC MISSION IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—The announcement of the arrival of a Spanish man-of-war in our port on Saturday last, caused no little excitement in our generally unexcitable community, more particularly as until the evening no further intelligence, as to the cause of her visit, could be obtained. She is the frigate of 32 guns, with a complement of 220 men, and is bound for an anchor, she saluted with 15 guns, which could not, however, it was in the power of the authorities at Freemantle to return, until Monday morning; but in order to explain this apparent courtesy, the Resident, R. M. Broun, Esq., immediately went off to her, and informed Captain Quesada of our meagre possessions in the way of ordnance—that what he saw on the Gool was not a fort, but merely three or four old guns, only one of which was fit for service, and we verily believe, he might have added that there was not sufficient powder to load them. He was requested to speak to, when he was on the second occasion, as far as possible, that gentleman to be spoken of, when he was once deputed to him, that he was a forger. Warrants were accordingly issued, but Mr. Stallard had in the meantime left Sydney, and made for the southward, and he was subsequently taken at Yass, from whence in due course he was transmitted to Sydney. Mr. Bellfield offered no defence, but when called upon to do so, urged that he had been dealt with in a way that he had not been able to procure justice, that he had not been able to procure a drop of water to wash himself before his arrival in Sydney with peculiar hardship. He had not, he said, been allowed to communicate with any person, either for the purpose of obtaining legal advice, or even for the purpose of procuring a change of clothes, and so strict had been the standing orders to permit no change of clothing or otherwise, without the prior permission of the Sub-Collector's very arduous duties.

TECHNICAL OBJECTIONS.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN.—I shall feel obliged by your insertion of the accompanying letter from the Attorney-General, being an answer to one which I addressed to him respecting a case which I brought before him respecting a case of assault and battery.

THE CUSTOMS HOUSE.

EVADING PAYMENT OF TOLLS.—A William Beresford was summoned on the above charge, by Charles Hannington, the keeper of the Western Tollgate, who deposed that on Tues. 9th September, 1846, he states that more than one-half the spirits consumed here at that time paid no duty, and that, although every one of the parties concerned in the illicit traffic is known, they have hitherto eluded their vigilance. Wonderful! why, up to the present, not seven years, all that the native Custom-house authorities have been known to seize was, first, a keg of contraband butter; secondly, a case of brandy, which was found after seizure to be all right, her Majesty having duly received her duty; and last, and most important, a private still. Yes, a real still, with wash and worm in full operation; but only a pecuniary one, and which was believed to have been placed by one of the informants of the party to get the reward, which he, as a matter of course, did. As to a contraband still, no one has ever been seized in 1846, and there will tell you, when the case in circulation was not the stuff to buy foreign goods with; but I think, since then, Mr. Duncan has altered his opinion: for, with all his prognostics, Brisbane has become an important shipping port, and the revenue derivable from exciseable articles now forms a very important item in the Sub-Collector's very arduous duties.

NOW IS THE OPPORTUNITY TO PURCHASE.

BLVD. B. E. AND BEAUTY.

TO be disposed of (by private sale), at Albert Vale, near Gunning, County of King, those two splendid and much admired Stallions.

YOUNG TRION AND PRINCE OF YORK.

The thoroughbred horse Trois, sire, the celebrated English stallion Trove, son of the celebrated English stallion Trove. For pedigree see Stud Book, vol. 17, page 8. Dame, a Cammeror mare. Prince of Wales—Sire, the renowned imported English stallion George IV.; dam, a Cleveland mare. The very superior qualities of these stallions are well known that the proprietor deems it needless to comment on their unrivaled powers: the sole reason for offering them for sale, being the want of time to attend to their own interests. And in the event of their being removed to a distant neighbourhood, they would no doubt pay their purchase money the first season; therefore are recommended as really worthy the attention and inspection of persons desirous to improve their stud.
